All Versital products now come with SteriTouch® Antimicrobial protection.

Antimicrobial Protection

- Versital is now a brand partner with SteriTouch® and will be offering it as part of all solid surface products, for both domestic and hospitality applications.
- Versital manufactures high quality stone resin products, also known as cultured marble.
- SteriTouch® is added to Versital as part of the gel coat, offering increased protection and will restrict the growth of microorganisms including bacteria and mould.
- SteriTouch® additives are effective against a broad range of bacteria, including those responsible for illness, infection, odours, staining and material degradation.
- Certified in laboratory testing, the antimicrobial properties of Versital have been verified by independent laboratories using the ISO22196 test method.
- Long-lasting protection and peace of mind.
- Independent testing has verified that SteriTouch® additives do not exhibit any discernible loss of efficacy over a period of 10 years.
